And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

Between President Johnson's announcement that he would not seek another term, and the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., last week was a most historical week. For regardless of what one might think of either man, both happenings have world wide affect on all of us.

No one knows at this time just what effect the death of Dr. King will have on the future of our country in terms of our race problems. It could move us closer to an answer or it could lead to a even bigger and more dangerous situation. But it is doubtful if things will continue as they have in the past.

Sometimes we have a very difficult time keeping things in the proper perspective and this problem of the Negro is one that seems to be the hardest to understand. On one side you have those that want all of their problems solved overnight and on the other hand you have those that just want to sweep it under the rug, so to speak, and forget about it.

An article in the Sunday Dallas Morning News puts the whole matter in better perspective than we have seen it in a long time.

In the large, the problem (Negroes) was one of making American reality conform to the American promise to all men. An ancient division between its peoples seemed now so accentuated by American's materialistic set of values that American society might well be torn apart. Significantly, perhaps, many of the rioters seemed to regard King's death less as a tragedy than as an excuse for pillaging a new color TV set.

"It seemed now that the United States had to face up to a question it had always dodged or see its system of government by consent and consensus go down the drain. The question as old as the United States itself: Is a Negro an American?"

"The men who wrote the federal Constitution in 1788 dodged the question. Most of them were high principled men who were aghast at the institution of slavery, but they finally had to temporize in answering the question. They reached the curious conclusion that a Negro was three fifths of a man so far as being represented in the Congress was concerned."

"For 50 years thereafter, the country jury-rigged state boundaries to compromise the American promise of equality to all men with the reality that they weren't. A hundred years ago, the American people fought a savage war between themselves which was supposed to settle the question once and for all. It never did. A series of Supreme Courts much more enchanted with protecting the emergent American corporation than with wrestling with knotty moral problems found new ways of dodging the answer."

"The fact that Martin Luther King in seven years had grown from the simple leader of a strike against bus segregation in Montgomery, Ala., to a world figure was perhaps indicative of how pressing the question now was."

Maybe there are many Negroes that do not deserve equal rights with the rest of our nation because they do not want anything but welfare and handouts, but what do you do about those that do deserve more than we let them have."

We were never a strong King admirer because we thought that he, too often, used, what we thought was poor judgment, in his so-called non-violent marches and rallies. But, at the same time, he was so far above the Hap Browns and Stokely Carmichaels that he will be missed by both sides of the issue.

For a while it looked like we were going to have a quiet political year here in Texas but now it looks like we will be blessed with another knock-down, drag-out fight between Gov. Connally and Ralph Yarborough over control of the Texas delegation to the convention.

While we might be able to stomach Yarborough as head of the delegation we can find no way that we can see him as a favorite son. Only the titles are different, really, but even this is too much for us.

Mrs. Joe Youngblood Reviews "The Story of Philosophy"

Mrs. Joe Youngblood reviewed "The Story of Philosophy" by Will Durant for members of Beta Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. David Casey.

She defined philosophy as including logic, esthetics, ethics, politics, and metaphysics. She gave a sketch of the philosophy of Plato's Utopia, and the philosophy of Friedrich Nietzsche. Plato believed in Universal education for all children. The first years are used to develop physically and music is added to develop gentleness at the age of 16. Lessons in math and science and a religion are added then also. At the age of 20, the first test is given. The failures are then the laboring class of people. At 30, the remainder of the students are tested again and the failures become the executives and military personnel. The remaining students are taught philosophy for 5 years, and then must practice philosophy 15 years.

Those that complete this become the rulers.

The philosophy of Friedrich Nietzsche, a German philosopher who had great influence on Hitler had the philosophy to develop a superman by selective breeding. There would again be three classes of people; the producers, the officials, and the rulers, as well as universal education.

Mrs. Youngblood said that women today have come from a time of much work and little leisure time to a time when leisure hours out weight work hours. She suggested some of this time be used to read. She quoted Francis Bacon "Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and a few to be chewed" and recommended that we read some of the books that change the world.

Mrs. Casey presided. Twelve members were present.

With the arrival of Twirp Week at HHS this week the girls are out hunting for a boy to ask on a date. The Twirp Week is sponsored by the Student Council. In order to have a twirp date a girl must buy a twirp license and HAVE it with her on the date.

With the construction of Hamlin's new senior high school moving steadily along, the students are beginning to take a more active interest in its looks and facilities. Most of the students are very excited about the marble Pied Piper that is being laid in the floor of the court-yard. Everyone seems to agree that the Piper will enhance the new facility.

Hamlin took second place in the District golf tournament, with a low score of 332. With a 306, Stamford took first place.

Gary Smith took Hamlin's low with a 75, followed by Milbourne Newland's 82 and Jimmy Hastings' 87. Beating Doug Elliott out of regional competition was Mike Owen with an 88, one point under Doug's score.

Congratulations to Milton Davis, Jimmy Hastings, and James Asher on their first place wins at the district track meet in Winters Saturday. Milton took first in discus, Jimmy in shot put, and James in the pole vault division. They will all be representing our district in regional competition in the future. Hamlin High took the third place rating in district, following Stamford, second and Colorado City, first.

Preparing to present another concert, the Pied Piper Band is busy this month. The band will present its ninth annual Parade of Music Tuesday, April 23. The concert will take place in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. and will feature all Hamlin Concert Bands and Stage cers; and the final voting Saturday Morning.

With only four more weeks of regularly scheduled classes left before the senior trip, the seniors are beginning to breathe a bit easier. Having had a very successful three act play they can concentrate more readily on their assignments and other activities which had been given second ratings.

Mrs. C. C. Prather is having as guests her two grandsons, Charles N. Prather, a senior at A & M College, and Gary M. Prather, a sophomore at John Tarleton. Other visitors are her two sisters and brother-in-law, Mrs. W. H. Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Slack of Abilene, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Latham and children of Houston.

Neinda Philosopher Comes Up With Idea to Help Columnists Compete With Television Experts

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One has been engulfed by the wave of political surprises lately, his letter this week indicates. Dear editor:

There have been so many surprises in politics lately, topped by President Johnson's decision not to run again, that there simply can't be anymore left, outside maybe of Bobby Kennedy's showing up with a crew cut and DeGaulle's offering to pay France's World War I debts.

The worst thing about these surprises though is what it does to newspaper columnists. I got hold of a bunch of old newspapers last night and began reading them in the light of what has happened a few weeks after they were published, and they're confusing.

For example when Rockefeller thwarted the experts and said he wasn't running, the columnists were caught flat-footed. "Political analysts had thought he certainly was going to run," one of them wrote, not mentioning he was one of the analysts.

Another one wrote only two weeks ago: "Anybody who knows Lyndon Johnson knows he's not going to give up four more years of power."

When Eugene McCarthy first announced he was running, another columnist said bemusedly "he is like Emmett Kelly, the clown, trying to sweep up his own spotlight."

And so it went, providing that this is where television has an advantage over newspapers for experts. An expert can be 100 per cent wrong and almost swallow his foot on T. V., but when the program changes, his words fade with the picture and it's hard to pin anything on him.

But with a newspaper it's different. There the words are, in black and white, and you can clip them out and carry them around and examine them after events have shown the expert didn't know any more about what was going on inside the mind of the President for example than he did next week's weather.

Consequently I have worked out a solution. Newspapers carrying columns by political experts ought to be printed in disappearing ink. Twenty-four hours after their profound and analytical opinions have appeared, the ink ought to fade like a television picture with a burned-out tube.

This of course does not apply to The Herald. Not as long as it is in it.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Don Crowley Writes Paper For Symposium

Don Crowley of Marshalltown, Iowa, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Crowley, has written a paper on "A Local Control Element to Reduce Costs of Automating Water-flood Injection Wells" which will be presented at the fourth biennial Hobbs Automation Symposium to be held in Hobbs, N. Mex., Apr. 18-19.

Crowley is a graduate of Hamlin High School and Texas Technological College, Lubbock. He and his wife have two sons. They live at 2012 Catalina Place in Marshalltown.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burton Hill, Jess Carlton and Tonja of Kamay visited in the home of Mrs. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Young over the weekend.

The fulfillment of God's word...

In the Old Testament Our Lord's birth, death, and also

His resurrection were foretold.

These events were proclaimed and written about long before Jesus came to earth.

God saw that these prophecies were fulfilled — that these things were accomplished. Hosea 6:2

prophecies Christ rising from the dead. The scriptures say that Jesus is now alive,

that He sits on the right hand of God and intercedes for us, and that as He rose from the grave,

we, who are in Christ, will rise also.

On this commemorating Easter let us all be in God's house to rejoice in this promise.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Care Needed In Calibrating Cotton Planters, Agent Says

Time spent by cotton growers calibrating and setting their planters will pay good dividends. Kirby Clayton, Jones County Agent, says the dividends become noticeable as the seedlings begin to emerge with the pay off coming from better yields at harvest time.

Uniformity, he adds, is the most important aspect of production and harvesting of cotton. It includes seed spacing in the row, depth of seed placement within the row and between rows and uniformity of row spacing and bed shape behind the planter. Proper consideration to these factors makes for more efficient use of sweep cultivators, herbicide equipment and harvesters, says the agent.

Research, he adds, has shown that a uniform drilled stand of three to four cotton plants per foot of row can be harvested more efficiently than either thicker or thinner stands.

Many producers follow the practice of regulating their planters to put down twice as many seed desired at harvest time. This means six to eight seed per foot of drill space is based on 85 percent germination, the minimum for seed tested and tagged by the Texas Department of Agriculture. If farm produced seed are planted, Clayton suggests a germination test and planter setting to reflect the test results. Experience and research, he says, have shown that losses due to faulty seed, disease and insect damage, and cultural practices normally reduce the final stand of cotton to about one-half the number of seed planted.

Due to variations in seed shape and size, Clayton says it's difficult to express planting rates in pounds per acre; best results, he adds, have come from checking the spacing of seed in the seed furrow.

This is easy to do with fuzzy or machine delinted seed for they can be easily seen in the furrow when covering plows are not in use. Acid delinted planting seed are normally black and hard to see in most soils; therefore, another method for calibrating the planter must often be used. The planter may be operated at normal speed along a turnrow or in a field in a raised position for several yards. The seed spacing can then be easily checked. Another method is to tie bags over the seed sprouts and catch the seed for a measured course. Count the seed and divide by the number of feet covered and you have the seed spacing, says Clayton.

The important thing is to know the number of seed being dropped. You can't afford to miss the three to four plants per foot very far without hurting yields and harvesting efficiency, emphasizes the agent.

Cotton Pickin's

By ROLLING PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Texas' Producer delegates to the National Cotton Council elected J. B. Cooper, Jr. as chairman of the producer delegation and a representative to beltwide Steering Committee at a meeting in Dallas on April 1.

Cooper, who was recently elected to his third consecutive term as president of Rolling Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. in Stamford, was nominated and supported in his candidacy by the newly organized Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations. RPCG was one of the cotton producer groups instrumental in forming the new federation.

Mr. Cooper, in his capacity as State Chairman, will have a key role in reflecting the views of Texas cotton farmers in regional and beltwide meetings, in coordinating the different views of the several cotton producing regions and in relaying information from other areas back to the delegates and organizations in Texas.

Charles G. Bragg, executive vice president of RPCG, who also attended the meeting, stated that RPCG is especially proud that President Cooper was elected to the position.

"The Chairman of this group," Bragg said, "will represent producers who grow 40% of the nation's cotton. Mr. Cooper will be in a particularly strategic position to safeguard the interests of Rolling Plains and Texas farmers in legislation, research and promotion activities."

SIMMONS

I returned to Anson and became the distributor for the Mobil Oil Co. I worked in this capacity in Anson and Hamlin for twenty years. I sold this business in 1960. I also have been a stock farmer for about ten years.

"I joined the Anson Police Dept. in 1961, where I served as a patrolman for four years. Three years ago I was appointed Police Chief of Anson, and have served in this capacity since that time.

"I am a veteran of the Air Force of World War II. I flew transport planes in the Air Transport Command.

"Upon discharge from the service, I returned to Anson to my family and business.

"My family consists of my wife, my mother, Mrs. E. F. Simmons of Anson, my daughter, Judy Deathea of Anson, my brother Thurman Simmons of Anson, and one sister, Mrs. C. R. Foster of Avoca.

"I have tried to see and talk with everyone in Jones County during this campaign, and will continue to do so until election day, but for those I may not be able to see, I would like to take this opportunity to tell you of my intentions as to the office I seek.

"As your sheriff I will listen to and counsel with everyone who has business with this office. I will work for fair and impartial law enforcement for everyone. I now have and intend to continue to have good working relations with all of the peace officers and other officials of this county and other counties. I think this is one of the most important phases of law enforcement, as we all must work closely together to do a better job. I intend to keep the patrol cars out over the county as I have found that this prevents many crimes.

"I have found in the past and I plan in the future to attend as many law enforcement training sessions as possible, as our laws are changing almost daily, and one must keep abreast to properly do the job.

"I will be very grateful for your support and vote on election day."

Sandra Browning of Dallas spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Browning, and Billy. Mrs. Browning went to Dallas Tuesday and returned home with her daughter Saturday.

Cowboy Reunion
To Be Held July
2,3,4 This Year

The 38th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion, one of the most colorful western events, will be held in Stamford on July 2, 3 and 4 this year, according to Eugene Swenson, president of the organization.

The rodeo parade and first performance will be held on Friday, July 2, at 4:00 p.m. The parade will wind its way through downtown Stamford with numerous riding clubs, floats and bands in addition to hundreds of authentic, working cowboys participating.

There will also be an official meeting of the old time cowboys for their annual get-together to honor their "almost gone" profession.

A big chuck wagon feed is held twice daily during the Rodeo. Competition in western events will be held nightly at 8 p.m. the three days with a matinee performance on the afternoon of the Fourth. The show attracts the largest number of amateur cowboys in the southwest and provides plenty of excitement for thousands of visitors from all over the nation.

Added attractions of special interest to the many visitors are being planned this year for the great influx of tourists expected in Texas for the HemisFair Exposition at San Antonio, as well as other events of national interest which will be held in the Southwest this year.
